6.3. Descriptors (Key Words)

Identify the manuscript with 3 to 10 key words or short phrases below the abstract using DeCS or MESH terminology which will assist indexers in cross-indexing the article in the data base.

For DeCS terms access: <http://decs.bvs.br> and for MESH (Medical Subject Index) terms access: <http://www.nlm.nih.gov/mesh/meshhome.html> . If suitable MeSH terms are not yet available, well known terms or expressions are accepted.

6.4. Text

The textual material of clinical or experimental observation manuscripts should be organized whenever possible in a standard form as follows: Introduction, Patients and Methods, Results, Discussion, Conclusion, Acknowledgment, References. Other types of manuscripts such as case report, editorials and reviews may follow a different format, according to the Editorial Board. Long manuscripts in order to provide a better understanding of its contents may include subheadings in some sections such as Results and Discussion.

Citations and References: Authors citations must appear in the text as superscript numbers placed to the right of a word, sentence or paragraph. Citations of names should be typed in Upper Case. Name of author(s) citation should follow the format below:

- One author: KOCK¹
- Two authors: KOCK e PENROSE¹
- Three or more authors: KOCK and cols.¹

Note: In the body of the text the form "...and cols" is suggested and in the references "... et al".

Introduction – It should briefly describe the reason to accomplish the article and the objective. Do not include data or conclusions and mention only relevant references.

Materials (or Patients) and Methods – should describe in detail the recruitment of individuals (human subjects and laboratory animals as well as group control) included in the research. Identify the age, sex and other relevant characteristics of the subject. Authors should be careful when specify race or ethnic group as their definition and relevance are ambiguous. Methods, apparatus (with manufacturer's name and address in parentheses) and procedures used should be identified in adequate detail so that other researches can reproduce the experiment. The methods published in other research should be mention and unknown methods briefly described. Statistical methods and protocols used should also be described, as well as the computers software used. Authors that submitted reviews should include a section to describe the methods used for locating, selecting, extracting and synthesizing data. These methods should be summarized in the abstract. When the paper reports experiments on human subjects it must indicate whether the procedures followed ethical standards of the responsible committee on human experimentation. Do not use name, initials or hospital identification of the patients, especially in illustrative material. When the paper reports experiments on animals, it must indicate that protocols were reviewed by the appropriate institutional committee with respect to the care and use of laboratory animals used in this study.

Results – Provide results in a logical sequence in the text, tables and figures. Do not repeat all tables and figures data in the text; consider the relevant ones.

Discussion – Emphasize important and new aspects of the study as well as the conclusions originated from them. Avoid detailed repetition of the data provided in the Introduction or Results. Include findings implications and limitations in the Discussion Section, mentioning implications for future research. Compare what was observed to other relevant studies.

Conclusions – The conclusions should be based on the study objectives, in order to avoid unqualified statements and conclusions that are not based on the findings. Author(s) should not state the economic benefits and costs unless their manuscript includes economic analysis and data. Studies that have not been completed should not be mentioned. New hypothesis should only be considered if justified. Include recommendations when appropriate.

Acknowledgement: Acknowledgements to people and institutions may be included at the end of the manuscript, stating any type of contribution and/or participation towards the development of the research. Technical support should be acknowledged in a paragraph separate from other types of contributions.

6.5. References

The references that are stated in the text should be consecutively in alphabetical order or as they are cited in the text. References, tables and legends must be identified in the text by superscript Arabic numerals. Citation of manuscripts accepted but not yet published: mention the journal and add "In press" in the reference list (authors should have written permission to mention these articles, as well as to verify if manuscripts were accepted to publication).

Avoid personal communications citation, unless it provides essential information and it is not possible to be obtained in printed sources (in such case they should be cited in parentheses in the text with name of the person and date of the communication). The Brazilian Journal of Videoendoscopic Surgery is in accordance with "Vancouver Style" (uniform requirements for manuscripts submitted to biomedical journals), electronic version is available on <http://acponline.org/journals/annals/01jan97/unifreqr.htm>, also published in N Engl J Med 1997; 336(4): 309-315 and commended by the International Committee of Medical Journal Editors.
